Digital Media Studio Open House

Tuesday, March 22, 2011
8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

The Digital Media Studio (DMS), located on the second floor of the library, provides students and faculty with the latest technology and a staff who can help with media-rich projects. The DMS is a collaborative space for users of all abilities and disciplines.

Reference librarians can help students locate quality resources such as scholarly articles, books, and credible websites to use in their multimedia presentations. Student assistants help with microtext and studio equipment such as headphones, card readers, and pen tablets, and offer assistance with software, lamination, hardware, and color printing.

The DMS also offers a variety of training options.

- Tech-Coach appointments are one-on-one 45-minute sessions for in-depth software assistance.
- Lynda.com offers comprehensive online training for lots of software, from Photoshop and Dreamweaver to Access and Excel.

The Digital Media Studio is equipped with:

- 8 high end Dell PCs and 12 Macs
- Laminator and project-finishing tools, including paper cutters and mounting glue.
- Oversized monitors
- 24 scanners
- Color/B&W printer

Some of the software the DMS offers can help you with the following:

- Art/Drawing
- Web Design
- Screen Capture
- Audio Manipulation
- Moviemaking
- DVD Creation
- Picture Editing
- Presentation

Old issues of Sidelines have been preserved for years to come.

The Special Collections department of Walker Library has been retaining issues of Sidelines, the MTSU student newspaper, covering 1938 to present. Because of the fragile nature of newsprint, the earliest issues were in a brittle, poor condition and were literally falling apart.

Although the copies were held in a climate-controlled area and access was restricted—handling further damaged the issues—something had to be done to preserve the newspapers. Beverly Geckle, serials librarian, initiated a project to have the newspapers microfilmed.

Preservation-quality microfilm is predicted to last 500 years. Over 34,000 pages of Sidelines are now available on microfilm in Walker Library's 2nd floor microtext area.

Plans are underway to digitize these issues and make them searchable electronically through the library's website. Funds are still being identified. Midlander yearbooks have been digitized and can be accessed and searched at library.mtsu.edu/digitalprojects.
